John Eakins, Liberal candidate in Victoria-Haliburton, adds his vote to the informal "burger poll" currently underway at the Brown Owl Restaurant on Highway 35. Mr. Eakins visited the community Saturday and, with a crowd of supporters, helped to swell the number of 'Eakinsburgers' ordered. According to restaurant owner John Stainton, the latest count shows Eakinsburgers leading Fearreyburgers by a 56 to 40 score.

First charge leads to second

The arrest of a driver on a charge of impaired driving led to a second charge of possession of a narcotic following an incident Saturday evening in Haliburton.

According to the police, a man was arrested in the parking lot of the Haliburton Arena and charged with impaired driving. He was taken by police to the OPP office in Minden for a breathalyzer test.

A short time after completing the tests at the station, a friend of the man arrived to drive him home. At that time, the police noticed a plastic baggy sticking out of the pocket of the second man. A subsequent investigation led to the man being charged with the possession of marijuana.

Robbie Jones, 22, of Toronto faces the charge of impaired driving, while his friend, 21 year old Michael Fiolka of Willowdale was charged with possession of a narcotic. The pair will appear in court June 5.

Constable Ken Wesley and Corporal Art Goard were the investigating officers.

Tool theft

Police are investigating the theft of tools valued at $1200. The theft is believed to have taken place sometime between April 13 and 18 from a pick-up truck parked on the side of Highway 121 in Dysart Township.

LEAD board selection-decision process begins

The Haliburton County Local Employment Assistance and Development (LEAD) project now has a 16 member board of directors. The selection of the seven board members to be selected from the general population of the county, was completed last Thursday.

The ten other positions on the board are filled through appointments made by the ten municipal governments. (A vacancy still exists from the municipality of Sherborne et al.)

Those selected as the seven representatives include Mac Gadway of Harcourt, Joan Hoad of Haliburton, Godfrey Saunders of Minden, Raymond Selbie of Haliburton, Ken Wilson of Haliburton, Bob Wiltshire of Stanhope and Roy Windover of Minden.

There were 15 applications for the seven seats on the board.

The municipally appointed members of the board include: Kerry Barbour of Monmouth, Steve Berry of Lutterworth, Stuart Brandon of Anson, Hindon and Minden, Austin Fults of Bicroft, Douglas Garlick of Cardiff, Jack Hills of Snowdon, Glen Hodgson of Dysart et al, Grant Montgomery of Stanhope, Dallyn Pickens of Glamorgan.

During the next two months the board will assess the various options for the projects. The group could use the federal funds for projects which would enhance the county's infrastructure, form a corporation to employ local labour, or lend money to existing businesses for expansion of employment opportunities.

Once the board decides the course, the LEAD Project will take, a manager will be hired to oversee its operation.

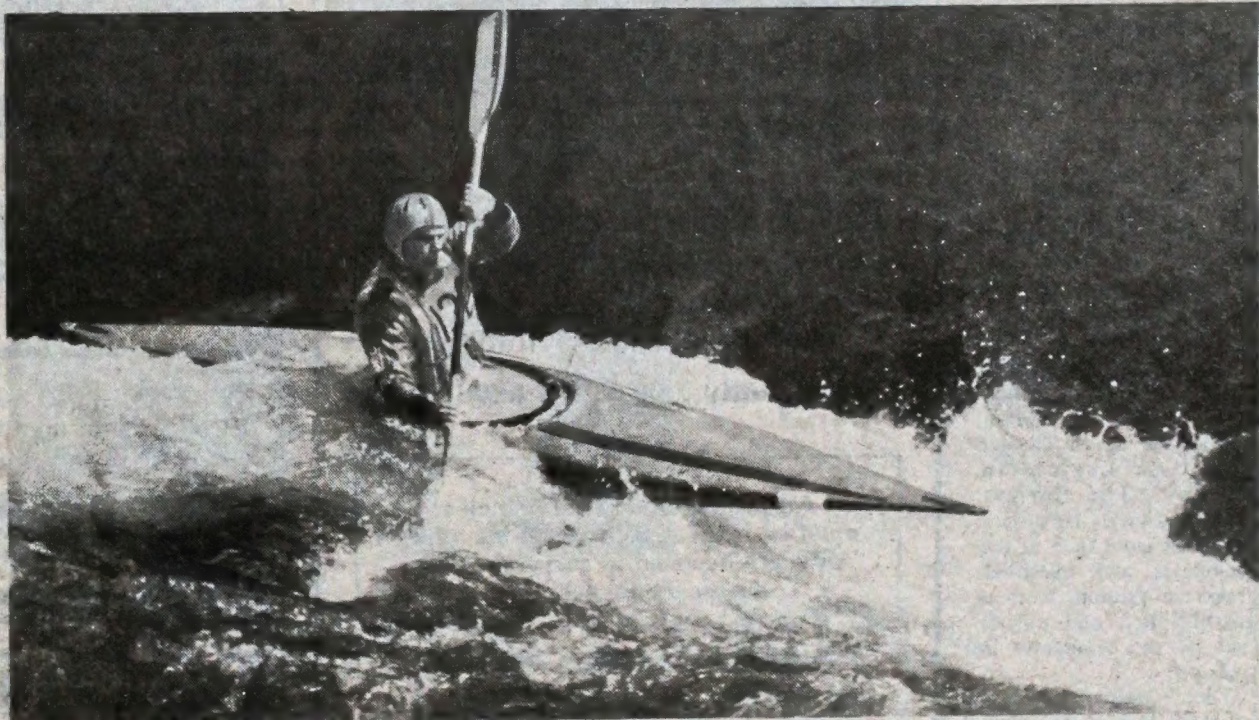

A decision on which direction to take must be made by the end of June when the proposal will be submitted to the federal authorities for approval.

Change clocks this weekend

If you have found the daylight to be streaming in the bedroom window at surprisingly early hours of the morning recently, take heart, an adjustment this weekend will help get things back on track.

This Saturday evening most jurisdictions in the province make the change to daylight saving time. Saturday evening before retiring, advance your clocks by one hour.

The move will mean for one night you'll lose an hour's sleep, but you'll also find that the mornings will be a little darker, a little longer, while an extra hour of daylight will be added to the evenings.

Delicately balanced atop a foaming wave, a competitor threads his way down the churning water of the Minden Wild Water Preserve. During the weekend competitors from across the country converged on the site for trials to determine the Canadian team in international competition this summer in Germany. The warm sunny weather made conditions ideal for spectators while the paddlers were left bobbing in water barely above the freezing temperature.

Project provides child identification kit

A program to assist police in identifying missing children is currently being carried out at the IGA grocery stores in Minden and Haliburton.

The program is sponsored by the IGA group of 143 stores across southern Ontario, with the endorsement of the Ontario Solicitor General.

Called 'Child Alert' the stores, with the assistance of local service clubs, are providing a folder on which a child's vital statistics can be recorded. Possibly the most important part of this record are the child's fingerprints. These cards are retained by the parents. If there is a need to begin a search for a child, these records can be given to the police to assist in their efforts.

At Dollo's IGA in Minden, the members of the Minden Kinettes Club have been processing the youngsters.

According to information provided by the stores, the fingerprinting process is similar to the method used by Canadian police forces. The booklet also includes a space for the child's photo, a place for a physical description of the child and suggestions on how the parent could "streetproof" the child.

A spokesman for the foodstore group noted they are prepared to process 250,000 children across the province. He said if the demand was greater, the store would provide additional booklets.

Manager of the Minden IGA, Peter Dollo, said the group of stores is pleased to be involved in the project. "If it helps the police to find a single missing child, it will be well worth the cost and effort," the spokesman said.

The "Child Alert" program will be available at the local IGA stores today, (April 24), April 29 and 30 and May 1 between 2 p.m. and closing.

Keri Hartwick watches carefully as Minden Kinettes Cathy King, left and Norma Amyotte make her fingerprint impressions on a booklet. The project, sponsored by the IGA grocery stores in Ontario, provides parents with a record of major identification features of their child which could be used by police in the event the child was missing.

Advance polls set

Qualified electors will have three opportunities to cast their ballot in designated advance polls for Ontario's 33rd general election prior to the May 2nd election day.

Advance polling will take place between 11:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. on April 25, April 27 and April 29.

Designated advance polls are offered for the convenience of those qualified electors who expect to be unable to vote on election day. The Ontario Election Office reminds electors that they may cast a ballot at any of the advance polling locations within their electoral district and that their names must be on the polling lists in their polling divisions.

Advance polling locations will be easily accessible, with level entries or ramps, making it easier for the elderly and physically handicapped to vote.

In addition, eligible electors will be able to cast their ballots (providing they have been printed) in the office of the Returning Officer on April 20, April 22, April 23, April 24, April 26 and April 30.

Location and times of advance polls will be advertised in daily and weekly newspapers throughout the Province.

Advance polls in Haliburton County will be located at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home, Minden and Royal Canadian Legion, Haliburton. The address of the Returning Officer is 251 Kent. St. W., Lindsay.

All candidates meeting

All three candidates for election in Victoria-Haliburton riding on May 2 have accepted invitations from Lindsay and District Labour Council to take part in an all-candidates meeting.

The meeting will take place at 8 p.m. on Monday, April 29 at the Main Auditorium of the Royal Canadian Legion in Lindsay. The format includes an opening statement from each of the candidates and questions drawn at random from a question box and put to each of the candidates in rotation.

Voter participation is invited to write the questions which will be put to the candidates.

The evening will conclude with an opportunity to talk further with the candidates while enjoying coffee, tea and donuts.

The farming community works long hours often for minimal financial return. The survival of the family farm will depend on stabilization of costs, openness to markets and access to modern technology. Time for a change

Voters in Victoria-Haliburton are faced with a challenging dilemma with the May 2 provincial election.

The incumbent candidate, Liberal John Eakins, has been a strong and able representative for this riding. One need turn no further than to those who covet his job to find more than grudging admiration for the effort he has put into representing Victoria-Haliburton. There is no question he is dedicated and hard working.

However, for the first time in a number of elections, Eakins is facing a credible challenge in the person of Murray Fearrey. Representing the Progressive Conservatives, he has mounted a hectic campaign that speaks highly of his interest and desire to take the seat from the Liberals. While Fearrey's abilities as a provincial politician have yet to be tested, his efforts on behalf of his municipality and the county offer ample indication that he is able, hard working and looking to the future.

Fearrey has offered a number of sensible policies during the campaign. For example, in the interview reported on page 5, he suggests, quite correctly, that tourism, (along with the forestry industry) will continue to be the mainstay of this county's economy. He suggests that an effort should be made to capitalize on the attractions now in place - the white water, cross-country and snowmobile trails, rockhounding to the east - and let these become the building blocks on which the profile of the county is raised.

His emphasis on jobs, through incentives to small business, is important, as is improved transportation facilities both here and in the southern part of the riding.

We think it is time for a change in representation at Queen's Park.

We are not proposing change for change's sake. Nor do we think that government largesse will flow like water if we return a Conservative to Queen's Park. However, we feel that Murray Fearrey can bring a fresh new outlook to Queen's Park, an outlook that will not only benefit this constituency, but the province as a whole.

Here's looking at you - Spring!

Editor:

Once again the Counties of Victoria/Haliburton have plunged into campaigns for another election. Such an endeavour is broken down into set patterns. There are debates, speeches, dinners, (etc.) so we the people, may decide and vote for the candidate of our choice.

All parties have their behind the scenes hard workers who give their all for what they believe in. Not every voter wishes to join the main stream flow but in their quiet way and honest evaluation, exercise their right to vote.

This election, we have been joined by an element we "all" could very well do without! These are the vandals and destructive individuals who are bent on smashing electoral campaign signs for the simple reason that they do not represent the man they wish to vote for. Don't you people realize what you are doing? You are destroying property that really belongs to you!

Every time a sign is destroyed or damaged it has to be replaced or repaired. This costs money and the work is not done by magic, it is done by ordinary people trying to do a job. They are friends, neighbours and relatives who would rather have you with them than against them.

Please remember the next time you are overcome by this useless waste of energy, try to channel it into something honest. Stand up for yourselves ... we still have freedom of speech. Whatever side you are on, stand up in broad daylight and be counted. Don't sneak around in the dark ... you are saying nothing!

'Be constructive - Not destructive!'

The heading for the first item of discussion in the report of the Liberal Party's Rural Task Force reads, 'Agriculture - the Key to Preserving Rural Ontario'. That acknowledgement in itself places the report light years ahead of current government policy in regard to agriculture.

The report indicates that 28% of the 515 farms declaring bankruptcy in 1984 across Canada were in Ontario. Combined with the farms gone out of production because of lack of continuation by the young, we have frittered away a basic sector in our resource-based economy.

"If farmers are allowed to flounder, rural Ontario towns will continue to decay." Clearly the message here is that the decline in prosperity of rural towns is directly related to the decline in agricultural productivity. Just as the single enterprise farmer is vulnerable, so the one-industry town or county is at the mercy of numerous economic variables outside their control.

The stress between the resource sectors in Ontario must be alleviated by a regional development strategy, incorporating tourism, forestry and agriculture, which represent the practical economic base for this region. All of these areas can be developed to interact in an environmental and economically constructive fashion to the betterment of the region as a whole.

Focusing on just a couple of the recommendations which demonstrate a thoughtful analysis of the current situation by the task force, I would provide marketing programs, promotions, incentives for new undertakings and

Federation of Ontario Naturalists

Like a giant slinky, the population moves. Up valleys. Along shrubby fence rows. Through backyards and woodlots. Hundreds, thousands, ten thousands!

Miniature bundles of energy, they 'zip' the arch from bush to bush, then 'pause' in an intense, hopping search for nourishment. Then on again, through the next arch. A vacuum created by one's departure, another races to fill it. Colours flash. Yellow and orange crowns. Garish, black-and-white spectacles. Yellows. Blues. And chestnut.

Warblers! The next 1-2 weeks will see the peak of spring migration. Perhaps 200,000,000 warblers will cross the Great Lakes' flow. Following natural corridors, like partly-wooded river valleys - they'll work their way north to appropriate habitat, then spread out, to cloak the landscape in dot-matrix of nests.

As a group, warblers are remarkably allied. They're all 'gleaners' - insect eaters efficiently built for hopping, flitting and virtually hovering. They're living vacuum cleaners, working over shrubs, trees and other vegetation, consuming every insect in their paths. And, their appetites are prodigious; a nesting pair of boreal warblers can consume 15,000 spruce budworms in a single breeding season.

Cued primarily by day length and secondarily by temperature, they arrive in a series of waves, following - predictably - insect emergence. Timing is critical; too early and they won't have a reliable supply to keep their tiny bodies going; too late and they'll have lost out on prime insect areas and nestings territories.

To those who look closely, this dazzling array will be made up of over 40 different species; some fantastically common, others equally rare. All are at the peak of breeding plumage, most with distinctly different male and female patterns. That's a staggering 80 plumages - and hundreds of different calls and notes - a bewildering array to the birder.

Though fantastically similar as a group, these species are each adapted to their own specific ranges, vegetation and diet.

Some head straight for the boreal forest, where they voraciously consume spruce budworm and other bud- and needle caterpillars.

Others head for the mixed forests of southern Ontario, where they hop about, voraciously consuming - and controlling - the myriad aphids, leaf hoppers and bark insects - which take sustenance there. Intriguing

The candidates

In an effort to keep Haliburton County and area voters informed on the issues in the upcoming provincial election, The Times editorial staff met with all three candidates during the past week. During the exclusive interviews, the candidates were asked to explain their position on various issues affecting residents of this riding. The following reports about those interviews were prepared by The Times reporter, Michael Shirley.

John Eakins - Liberal

The Victoria-Haliburton riding has been represented in the provincial legislature for the past decade by the Liberal candidate John Eakins.

Eakins began his political career by serving on the Lindsay Town Council for four years as a councillor, and for six years as the mayor. After unsuccessfully contesting the seat in two elections, Eakins defeated the Conservative incumbent in 1975, then went on to win in 1977 and 1981.

While serving in the legislature, he acted as chairman of the Liberal Task Force on Tourism and more recently, the Task Force for Rural Municipalities.

In an interview with The Times on Saturday, Eakins commented on the two reports.

"Of the 24 recommendations of the Tourism Task Force, all have been adopted in part or whole by the government. The cornerstone of the report was that the Tourism Ministry should be separate from Industry," he said, adding that although the Conservatives initially opposed the idea, not long after, they created the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation. "Even though we will never get credit, we have played a part in changing legislation."

"Regarding the Rural Task Force report, I feel that many of those recommendations will be adopted by the government. We will not get credit for it, again, but still, we are playing our part by being responsible and bringing it to their attention."

If we form the government I am sure it will be part of our policy."

Municipal and provincial roads

A section of the rural task force report deals exclusively with the condition of municipal and provincial roads and criticizes the provincial government for its failure to keep the roads up to standard.

Eakins elaborated on the report. "There has been a lack of action by the government. I have talked about this for years. If we allow our roads to deteriorate, it is going to affect the state of tourism." He added, "They have cut back considerably. This is the opinion of the Ontario Road Builders' Association, the Ontario Good Roads Association and the Association of Municipalities of Ontario."

Eakins emphasised his commitment to rural Ontario in discussing the proposed closure of five schools in Victoria County. He said in meetings with the Director of Education and the head of the school board, he expressed his concerns that "Wherever possible, we should keep schools in small communities in operation." He added, "Where there is an established community, we should reverse the trend of people leaving. We should save the school, the hospital and the church so that people can live and work there."

However, Eakins emphasised, "It is not my job to tell the board they are wrong and that they should be doing something else. The school board is democratically elected. I have faith in the school board. They are good trustees who are doing their best." "I did urge them though to give a lot of thought to building the small communities."

Democracy or dictatorship

In commenting on the argument that the riding would be better represented by a member of the party in power, Eakins stated, "I would like to think that we live in a democracy and not a dictatorship. In the last election they were saying we have got to have someone on the government side of the house and they are saying it again in this election. I would rather be an active opposition member and be able to stand on the record of what I have done than to be a government backbencher who has had no responsibility and has played no part whatsoever."

Eakins added, "If a government were to say to you that you must be on the government side or you are not going to get anything, I would seriously question the

(more on page 7)

Murray Fearrey - Progressive Conservative

Of the three candidates in the upcoming election, the Progressive Conservative hopeful, Murray Fearrey, is the only rookie.

The 43 year old native of Haliburton defeated three other candidates to win the P.C. nomination at the end of March, a race he entered just two weeks before the Tory convention.

For the past 14 years Fearrey has served on the Dysart et al municipal council, Reeve for ten years and during that time, has served two terms as the Warden of Haliburton County.

Fearrey visited the office of The Times on Monday after a long day of campaigning, to discuss the election issues.

He began by noting that although there is a diversity of interests and concerns in the riding, the major concern, especially in the north end of the riding, is jobs and the stability of the employment situation.

He emphasised the importance of expanding the tourist industry in the area. "If tourism is to expand, first of all, we have to be known better by making better use of the Central Ontario Travel Association and, in conjunction with that, the province must promote Ontario better south of the border."

"A few years ago, up to 30% of the resorts clientele were from the USA," he said, adding that there has been a significant decrease in the number of visitors from south of the border because of the high cost of fuel and accommodation.

Fearrey suggested that by promoting the difference in the rate of exchange, we can attract more American tourists. "Americans have to be told that they can come to Canada and that their dollar will be worth $1.30," he said.

Many small attractions

The candidate said that rather than trying to establish one major tourist attraction in Haliburton County, the area should concentrate on a number of smaller attractions. "The PineStone (Golf and Country Club) has shown that it can be successful. There is a potential for that kind of a facility," he said. Fearrey added that we have not yet realized the potential of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association trail system, the linked cross country ski trail system and world championship course, or the Minden white water course.

Fearrey emphasised that he wants to see the local municipalities and the province work together to preserve the abandoned rail line between Lindsay and Haliburton. Noting that the line passes through some of the most scenic parts of the county, Fearrey stated it would make an excellent year round recreational trail and could become a major attraction for the entire constituency.

Help for small business

Another way to create jobs Fearrey said, is to assist small businesses. "Small businesses in the area need to be reinforced. That is a major program of the party through Enterprise Ontario." Fearrey explained that under the program, profits will not be taxed if they are used to expand a business. "If you expand, you will create jobs," he said, noting that 90% of the jobs in the province are created through small businesses.

Fearrey emphasised the importance of improving transportation links to the south. He stated that if elected, he would push for the creation of a major east-west artery between Highway 404 and Lindsay. "When you get a major transportation link within 30 to 40 miles

(more on page 7)

Art Field - New Democratic Party

The New Democratic Party candidate Art Field is the least known of the three candidates particularly in the northern part of the riding.

The 50 year old autoworker was working a full shift at the General Motors plant in Oshawa at the beginning of the campaign and did not start campaigning full time until the beginning of last week when he began his holidays.

Field, a resident of Valencia, near Little Britain, has been active in politics for the past 25 years as a member of the Political Action Committee of the United Auto Workers and as an N.D.P. candidate in the 1971 and 1981 provincial elections. He also served as the campaign manager in the past two federal elections.

Field visited The Times office on Friday after attending a Home Support meeting on a swing through Haliburton County.

He began the interview by noting that in his opinion the major issues of the campaign, particularly the unemployment problem, remain the same as in past elections.

One change that he has noted during his political career is the shift in public attitude regarding social issues. "There is an attitude in our society of 'I'm alright Jack'. Even where I work some of the guys are not really willing to take an active part in helping others," he said, adding that there was far more concern shown to the plight of others when the N.D.P. was formed and during the 1970's.

Field has been active in politics because he feels it is important to take part in the system and not take it for granted.

Long hours - hard work

He has a lot of respect for politicians, particularly the members of the legislature. "The image of politicians is that they don't do anything but they put in long hours and work hard at their jobs," he said. He added that the workload and stress was more worthwhile to politicians in power than opposition members. "In a hockey game an injury doesn't hurt you as much if you are winning, but it hurts you if you lose," he said.

As to how much influence an opposition member can have, Field commented, "If you are a new member on the government side and you are stuck on the backbenches, how effective can you be? As for a person in the opposition, they can have a higher profile because there are fewer members."

He went on to say, "Our system is great. In most of the world if you are in opposition and you call someone a ding-a-ling you end up being purged or shot," adding that debate in the legislature allows for serious criticism of the government.

Field criticised the assertion that members of the legislature on the government side can better serve their constituents. "I don't like that attitude that implies if I am on the winning side I can do more for you than if I am on the losing side," he said, adding "It is pork barrel politics."

As an example of a riding that has benefitted regardless of the member's political affiliation he pointed out that the Ministry of Revenue was moved from Toronto to the Oshawa riding, "even though they haven't had a Conservative member there in a long time."

The candidate said, however, that he believed that more government funds should be spent in areas away from the mainstream. "It is not being spent in the areas that need it the most," he said.

Help for tourism

Speaking specifically about the Haliburton Highlands, he ruled out forcing industry to become established in this

The organizers are expecting about 1500 bikers for Saturday activities and the majority of them will stay over night. We will have more information about times and places in future columns.

Moneycare

Moneycare is a regular feature of members of the Institute of Chartered Accounts of Ontario written by Stuart Hartley, C.A.

Proper money management in a small business - without which it will never become a big one - breaks down into four areas:

Planning: Try to maintain an objective view of your business. There is too much unwarranted optimism. It is essential to define your objectives, then translate them into a budget, and particularly into a cash-flow projection. A budget may show that for a period of time sales will grow and you will make money. But the cash flow will indicate that, to make that money, you must buy inventory and finance a growing list of receivables.

The Cash-Flow Projection: What you anticipate will happen in your business during each month of the coming year - is basic to business planning and is virtually demanded by banks. Microcomputers make the projections easy to produce quickly. Don't try to muddle through. You need a contingency fund to deal with such problems as bad receivables. Without such a fund, a problem becomes a crisis. A frequent symptom of poor planning is last-minute financing. If you are taking on a new line of inventory or new area of business, expect to have problems. Prepare a financing proposal that states clearly what you need and why you need it. Be realistic about probable setbacks. And be ready to replace equipment when it wears out or becomes obsolete.

Management: Apart from regular expense control, this consists of two areas - receivable management and inventory management. Receivable management means getting the cash you are owed within your credit terms. Too often it is overlooked that you are financing your customer and reducing your profit margin when you let him get away with extending his payment beyond the period you have indicated.

Inventory management involves having the right items when you need them - and not before. The auto industry has led the way in "just in time" inventory management. All businesses should be moving toward this approach to minimize inventory financing.

Adequate Equity: This is a chronic problem with small businesses, which often have too much debt in relation to equity capital. The result is that when revenues decline or interest rates rise it is hard to survive.

Another equity problem is that as a small business grows, so do its banking needs. Banks get very nervous when they find that there is little money in the business other than their own. Potential investors also want to see that the owner has money on the line. Finally, the lack of adequate equity makes acquisitions difficult.

Appropriate Financing: This is related to adequate equity. Many owners don't even consider alternatives to bank demand loans. You should, or you are at the mercy of interest rates. Try to lock in some debt when interest rates fall. You might also look at leasing to avoid large downpayments and thus conserve cash. Consider attracting other investors and, if you own your business, of mortgaging as a long-term financing alternative.

ingly, some feed exclusively in the upper canopy of cathedral-like forests, while others live in the lower parts, and others still in areas of scrub regrowth.

A number of species are fantastically specific in their habitat. The prairie warbler, for example, occurs in Ontario only on a specific type of open back-dune area of sand dune systems, and is found at only a few Ontario sites.

Though individual species occupy these precise habitats, warblers together blanket Canada, to the tree-line and even beyond. Together, they're a vital system of checks and balance upon insects, providing specific, non-destructive and highly efficient insect control. It's vital that we sustain this system, to protect the long-term stability and health of our forests.

The stolen material consisted of hand and power tools including saws and drills. The tools were the property of Beachli Construction.

Constable Ken Wesley was the investigating officer.

Shooting

A Minden detachment OPP officer will be off work for several weeks following a shooting accident April 16.

Constable Ron Buchanan 39, of Minden, was recording the serial numbers of a number of handguns brought into the detachment office for registration. A 9 mm pistol was apparently loaded and when the pistol was opened, it discharged with the bullet entering the constable's arm and wrist.

The officer was treated and released from Minden Hospital.

Accidents

A charge of careless driving has been laid against a Minden woman following a mishap on County Road 16 April 20.

According to the police, the vehicle driven by Shirley McKnight, 39, left the road causing some $3000 damage. The car struck a culvert.

The driver was hospitalized with lacerations and bruises.

The investigating officer was Constable Mike Legge.

A second driver was also charged with careless driving following an accident Friday. A pick-up truck driven by Shayne Yateman of Guilford Township, left Highway 121 and rolled over. Yateman sustained minor injuries.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $1500.

integrity of the people in that government." "If they are saying to me that taxpayers' money will not be evenly apportioned to all ridings, I would say that there is something wrong with the honesty of the government because grants are available to everyone."

As a final comment on the issue, Eakins commented, "What has this riding not received or been denied because I was the member? That is what I would like answered."

The incumbent concluded by saying that in this election, the voters should consider his record in the constituency and in the house. "I have given almost seven days a week service to the people. That is what they are looking for in their member. I can stand behind the work that I have done. Not only have I tried to give them answers to their problems, I have tried to bring them closer to the process. The voters should also support me because of my work at Queen's Park. I have not been sitting as a silent member. My party has recognized my abilities and they have given me responsibilities in several areas."

He added, "I feel that on the basis of my record, the voter does have someone who is actively working to influence legislation and it is also providing access to Queen's Park."

Eakins concluded by saying, "The people are the jury in this election. They will decide in their own minds what type of representative they want and what type of government. I have given everything I have for a long time."

Murray Fearrey

from your area, it creates a potential for light, clean feeder industries that can benefit the area."

Fearrey criticized the present state of the road system in the riding. Noting that 28% of the roads in the province are considered deficient and that 42.7% of the roads in the counties of Victoria and Haliburton are considered deficient, Fearrey said, "The incumbent has issued a communique that says within five years it will be 47.5%. It is clear to me that we have to make a stronger case to the province because we are way above the provincial average. The premier has said that roads and road funding will be a higher priority of his government than they were in Mr. Davis' government. If we put our case properly before the minister, we can turn that situation around."

School closings

When asked for a comment on the possible closure of five rural schools in Victoria County, Fearrey replied that his position has been consistent. "We are saying that a major part of the strength of small rural communities is the school system." "Ultimately, the board of education must make that decision," he said, but added that because many people have made it clear to him they want to retain the schools in the communities, the board should reconsider its decision. He added that his position also applies to the possible closure of Dorset Public school.

Fearrey noted that he has been well received during the campaign throughout the riding. "People are looking closely at our policies. We do have new ideas. In my opinion, there have been no new ideas from the incumbent," he said.

Fearrey noted, "There are all kinds of promises from the opposition," but he argued that the programs announced by David Peterson will cost $800 million which ignores fiscal responsibility and accountability.

"Ontario has the lowest per capita debt of any province in Canada. If we are going to keep strong, then we have to maintain a reasonable fiscal balance," he said.

In summing up, Fearrey pointed out that there was no doubt the riding has lost jobs to other areas in the past few years even though in the past year, 60% of all new jobs in Canada, were created in this province. "We are creating jobs better and at a faster rate than any province in Canada," he said, adding, "Haliburton-Victoria must be able to capture some of those new jobs. We have to make a stronger case. That is what people should be basing their decision on in the election. Jobs, real opportunities and strengthened small communities are the issues in this riding and we must do better than we have been doing."

area to create more jobs. "We can't just tell them to move here. The reason industry is not here is because of the transportation problems." He suggested instead that the tourism sector should be strengthened in order to create jobs.

He added that the provincial government places too much emphasis on helping big business and not enough on assisting the small business sector. "If they can help Chrysler, and Massey Ferguson, why not smaller businesses such as lodge operators, by subsidising wages to a certain amount?"

"Also, when big companies get guaranteed loans, why shouldn't the government get shares in the companies so that the people can benefit?"

Turning to the subject of education, Field was asked to comment on the proposed closure of five schools in northern Victoria County and the construction of one or two new facilities.

Field responded, "We went through it in the Township of Mariposa back in the '70's when my children were going to school. They began consolidating a dozen one room schools into schools with three grades."

He said that although his children received an excellent education in the one room school because of an exceptional teacher, there was a lack of proper education in the three room school. That situation changed when a central school was built, Field said "They had newer facilities, better teachers and better recreational facilities," he said, adding "I support the school board's decision. It will give the students a better education."

In summing up his stand in the election, Field stated, "I am the candidate for the party. I stand for the policies of the N.D.P. and I want to put our policy across to the voters." He added that even though the campaign is exhausting, "It is interesting. I must be crazy or whatever, but I enjoy doing it. It is an important part of the system."

education, we can provide the prospect of a comfortable life through agriculture. The task force recognized in its opening remarks that 'the vision of an urbanized, computerized society has blinded the provincial government to the need to preserve the rural base of our economy.'

The report recommends an 'increase in funding of agricultural programs in institutions of higher learning.' Education must endeavour to strike a balance between the technological and scientific advances and the rural environment which youngsters from the countryside, small towns and villages and embued with in their daily routines.

The task force recommends making 'government research available - through the Ministry of Agriculture - to training programs for young people.' Job creation programs, apprenticeship programs, and employment generally should reflect the greater potential for agriculture as a more constant source of employment in rural areas. An apprenticeship program in agriculture would offset the more technical advances in large-scale farming, and place the family farm back into perspective for the young.

The province's failure to preserve and protect the more productive farmland in southern Ontario will inevitably place a greater onus upon the marginally conducive areas to assume a greater role in agricultural productivity. The task force recognized the need for a 'comprehensive government policy under the Planning Act to preserve our prime agricultural land.'

Given the state of the industry, the government must establish incentives for the progressive rehabilitation of agriculture. Many of the recommendations deal with this aspect of renewal in the industry, with a focus upon feasibility studies into new marketing concepts.

Specifically, the report recommends 'expanded markets for Ontario farm products by supporting well-situated facilities, processing plants, improved market intelligence and increased research in food storage and new crops development.' The report recognized 'we must take a big step to boost farm incomes by making an aggressive commitment to eliminating our one billion dollar food trade deficit (which compares to a national agricultural trade surplus of $4.3 billion.)'

Clearly, if Ontario is to have any degree of self-sufficiency in food production, given the decline in productive land to the south and the lack of quota available to Ontario in general, and beginning farmers specifically, the marginally productive areas of central Ontario must become the focal point of research programs and agricultural development, that would see these areas assume a greater role in food production within Ontario.

If this is to be achieved, as the report acknowledges, agricultural land must remain competitive within the resource sector of Ontario. Further, we must seek to establish marketing-promotional programs in association with existing community resources, such as business and tourism affiliations.

"Ontario cannot survive without programs to help farmers, improve roads, boost tourism, aid small business and train young people."

Bravo to Mr. Eakins and the other members of the Task Force, for an outstanding effort on behalf of rural municipalities and agriculture specifically.

Ernest Hills,
R.R.1, Kinmount.

Editor:

I am enclosing a copy of a letter which I have today addressed to Prime Minister Mulroney, dealing with the Star Wars question.

I have sent a copy of this letter also to the three local candidates in the forthcoming Ontario Election, as I believe it would be helpful to the voters to know what their position is on the question.

Louise Watson,
R.R. 2, Minden

Sir:

I am addressing you on a matter which, as a Canadian Citizen, I feel deeply concerned about - namely, your proposal that Canada should participate in the "Star Wars" space weapons program so vigorously put forward by the Reagan Administration of The United States. I am strongly opposed to our involvement in this project because it seems to me it is a direct threat to our national security, and because of the heavy costs involved which would be borne by Canadians through the tax system.

The statement that our involvement would "create jobs" I consider to be a false conclusion. This project is one of very sophisticated technology, and any jobs would of necessity go to the few who would be skilled in that technology.

The recent Bovey Report on Ontario universities paints a dismal picture. It recommends that University enrolment be cut, funding reduced, tuition fees increased, and adverse changes in the student loan programs. Assuming that other universities in Canada are in the same predicament, how, then, can our young people in any significant numbers acquire those necessary skills?

I am convinced that the majority of Canadians do not want our country to become involved in "Star Wars", especially our working population, students, and unemployed. One has only to look at the statements of our trade union leaders, who are almost daily in touch with the thousands of workers who are members of their respective unions. For instance, Bob White, head of the 120,000-member Auto Workers Union, who recently said - "The Star Wars" program makes no sense for Canada, either from an economic or political point of view."

Further, other countries both in and out of the NATO Alliance, have disassociated themselves from "Star Wars", the latest being Norway. I would urge you to follow their lead and keep Canada out of it. You have indicated that you consider nothing more important than peace. If this is so, then you must repudiate Star Wars program, which ultimately would lead to nuclear war.

(Mrs.) Louise Watson,
R.R. 2, Minden, Ont.

No pressure say tavern owners

The Provincial election campaign heated up over the weekend when the leader of the Liberal party made the accusation that Liquor Licence Board inspectors are pressuring bar and tavern owners to support the Progressive Conservative party. The accusation prompted the manager of the Dominion Hotel, Siss Gillis, to contact The Times and express her personal endorsement of the local liquor inspector.

"Our liquor inspector, his name is Mr. Jennings, is the nicest, most honest guy you would ever want to meet," she said, adding that he had "never pressured us in any way to support the part, and in fact, no one has pressured us."

"It was never suggested that we support any party."

Gillis added that the salesmen for the breweries and other inspectors also find the accusations hard to believe.

The manager of the Rockcliffe Tavern concurred with his counterpart's statements.

Murray Beetlestone commented, "I can't see that happening anywhere and I can't see why this would make a difference to the Board."

The manager suggested that the Liberal leader may know of one case of pressure tactics being used, adding "If so, he should release more details, otherwise it will only hurt his campaign."

Tempers flare over Chamber disagreement

A letter to the editor published in The Times on April 3, was the subject of a heated exchange between Ron Gambell, the Reeve of Lutterworth and Deputy Reeve, Glynn Lewis, at the municipal council meeting on Thursday.

The letter, written by Lewis, criticized the reeve for his attack on the Chamber of Commerce during the presentation of the budget at the County Council meeting in

The letter, written by Lewis, criticized the reeve for his attack on the former manager of the Chamber of Commerce during the presentation of the budget at the County Council meeting in March.

In the letter Lewis expressed his personal support of the manager, adding that her resignation "was regretted, but understandable."

At Thursday's municipal council meeting, Gambell objected to the statements in the letter.

Noting that the Board of Directors of the Chamber had made it clear in a statement that the manager was resigning for health reasons, Gambell said that "with one stroke of the pen" Lewis had cast doubt on the statement.

Gambell added that the letter gave people the impression that council had been "fighting over the issue" and reminded the deputy reeve that he had voted for the withholding of funds to the Chamber at a past council meeting.

Lewis answered that he had written the letter because he disagreed with Gambell's criticism of the manager, arguing that, in his opinion, the manager had been very competent, "more competent than you would have been."

Lewis added that the proper time to have criticized the funding of the Chamber was at the January county council meeting when the chamber president first presented the budget proposal.

Gambell replied that he had been absent from the meeting because he was away on holidays. He added that he had voiced his criticisms during the discussion of the county budget, "Because I have a right to express my opinions."

Lewis responded, "So do I."

At that point Councillor Al Stott acted as mediator, commenting "Council is not the place to discuss this." He asked Lewis if he had signed the letter as the deputy reeve.

Lewis replied that he had just signed his own name.

Stott again suggested that the disagreement was not council business. Gambell disagreed, arguing that it was the business of council, but ended the discussion and adjourned the meeting.

Grant awarded

A community planning grant of $2,750 has been awarded to the Township of Anson, Hindon and Minden, Dennis Timbrell, Ontario Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing, announced recently.

Mr. Timbrell said the grant will be used to set future development policies for lands identified as being susceptible to flooding and designated Special Policy Areas in the Official Plan.

Community planning grants are designed to encourage municipalities to resolve land use planning issues to reflect municipal and economic priorities.

The grants may also be used for special studies to develop community improvement policies; to determine the feasibility of using data processing technology in the local planning process; and to assist in implementing the Planning Act.

Parks will take credit cards

Ontario's provincial parks have become part of the first provincial government to accept credit cards throughout the province.

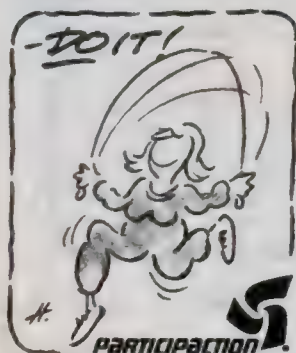

"You can now use VISA or MasterCard to pay your camping fees, guarantee your campsite reservation or pay for your annual vehicle permit," Natural Resources Minister Michael Harris said recently.

"The use of credit cards in our provincial parks means that campers won't have to carry a lot of cash, and park offices won't need to keep a lot of cash."

With the new system, when the customer books ahead using a VISA or MasterCard number, park staff will be able to provide a guaranteed reservation.

With a guaranteed campsite already booked, campers will get a head start on the peace of mind they are often looking for when they visit a provincial park.

Campers who prefer not to use a credit card may still have their reservation guaranteed by mail, if it is accompanied by a deposit.

FOR THE LOVE OF GOD. GIVE.

The uniform is like a beacon on the street. It signals help. Compassion. Caring.

But not many people know how much it takes to be a soldier in the Salvation Army. The inhuman hours. The incredible patience. The brutal situations.

Taking responsibility for those whom society is unable to take responsibility for.

Providing help, and then hope, for the people who need it most.

But they know.

Anyone whose life the Salvation Army has touched knows.

And we ask for them, that you give.

As much as you can. For the love of God.

The Haliburton County Information Centre is alive and well and very pleased to say that we have been able to help so many citizens in the County for the past 2 1/2 years in finding solutions to problems, answers to questions and assisting people with various government programs and applications.

All inquiries that we receive are confidential and our service is free of charge. To provide information, we maintain extensive resource files of local services and government agencies, departments and their functions, along with a variety of brochures and pamphlets on many different topics.

The Centre has succeeded mainly through the co-operation of volunteers who have so generously donated their time and effort in order to carry on a much needed service. This year we are hoping to expand on our services and can only do this through the aid of more volunteers.

If you feel you would like to be part of our Centre, why not drop in and see what our organization is all about. After becoming more familiar with our Centre and what we have to offer, I'm sure that you will agree that it is something that is valuable to our community and rewarding in knowing that we can help so many people. We are located in the Drag River Municipal Building in Haliburton and are open weekdays, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Support Services mark fifth anniversary

The Haliburton County Home Support Services celebrated the fifth anniversary of the organization with a dinner and meeting at the Stanhope Firefighters Community Hall on Friday.

Over one hundred people attended the meeting that was held in conjunction with Volunteers Week.

President Victoria Agnew welcomed the Warden of the County, Dalton MacDonald and the reeve of Stanhope, Harry Davis, whom she described as being "long time friends of Home Support."

The president also welcomed the volunteers who have returned to the county from the sunny south and the many volunteers who have continued to help shut-ins during the winter.

Agnew commended the volunteers for their work throughout the county noting that the organization has defied the odds by continuing to function in "an elongated, sparsely settled area that is well off the beaten track." "We should not have succeeded, but nevertheless we did," she said.

The president then introduced the guest speaker Jan Forsythe, the Regional Director of the Canadian Hearing Society.

In an informative, and at times, humorous presentation, Forsythe spoke of the difficulties experienced by the hearing impaired. She noted that one person in ten has a hearing loss and that 30% of people over 55 years of age are hearing impaired. Forsythe explained that hearing loss can occur because of a physical problem, which can be corrected by surgery, or by a deterioration of nerves.

She suggested that anyone who is suffering hearing loss should see a specialist, but noted that the last person to know they are hard of hearing is that person, partly because the loss can be very gradual and "because we adapt to our environment."

People with a hearing loss have "great difficulty in communicating with other people" and are often criticized for "being able to hear very well when they want to," Forsythe said, but, she pointed out that because hearing impaired people

"may still be able to hear well in the lower frequencies they may be able to hear one person speak but have difficulty with another person. "We all speak in different tones."

In order to understand the problems faced by the hearing impaired, Forsythe said she had worn ear plugs for a period of three days without telling a nyone.

She noted that although she had seen herself as a caring, understanding person, she was not prepared for the three day ordeal. "There were things going on in my environment and I didn't know it," she said.

As well as not being able to hear everyday sounds, Forsythe said she found it very frustrating to try to understand people who kept turning away from her when speaking.

"This handicap affects everything. You can't escape it," she said. Forsythe asked the audience to be more considerate of people who are hard of hearing. "They may seem all right, but often they are hiding their feelings. It can be very difficult for them." "When you spend time with them, do something in a quiet place and don't talk too much. Every time you start to talk, you are putting them in a stressful situation," she said.

Forsythe added that hearing aids can help but noted that they were not effective in classes or meetings because the speaker might be too far away. Hearing aids are available which include an FM receiver. The aids can be switched over to pick up a conversation through a microphone worn by the speaker.

During her presentation Forsythe wore such a microphone while people in the audience passed around three sets of hearing aids.

The results were, in the words of one person, "unbelievable" and because of the effectiveness of the system, Forsythe was approached by over a dozen people after the meeting for more information.

ASK YOUR PHARMACIST

Controlling high blood pressure

"I have been taking pills for a high blood pressure condition for quite some time now. Recently, I've been feeling lots better. Can I stop my medication?"

Absolutely not. Talk to your doctor first. If you stop taking this medication on your own without your doctor's consent, you are endangering your health. Your chances of having a stroke or heart attack will be greatly increased.

Most people with high blood pressure do not have any noticeable symptoms. The only way to tell if you have a high blood pressure problem is to have it measured.

Blood pressure is nothing more than the force of blood pushing against the walls of blood vessels. Uncontrolled, high blood pressure (sometimes called hypertension) damages blood vessels in the brain, heart and kidney by adding to the workload of the heart and arteries.

If blood pressure is high and uncontrolled and remains so for quite a long time, it can lead to stroke, heart attack, kidney failure.

Many different drugs are used to treat high blood pressure. Some of these produce side effects in susceptible people. For example, one group of drugs acts as a diuretic (water pill) and increases the flow of urine. For the first few days you could feel mildly dizzy. That feeling passes soon. Ask your pharmacist or doctor for advice about possible side effects when you have your prescription filled.

Your doctor has also probably told you to make certain changes in your lifestyle. Losing weight, not smoking, and avoiding salt are the sorts of things which help to control blood pressure. Most patients need to carefully follow a medication schedule, too. Your pharmacist can help you with these routines. For example, if you are restricting your salt and calorie intake, you will want to know which cough and cold preparations to avoid and what antacids not to take. Your pharmacist has this information.

High blood pressure cannot be cured, but it can be controlled. You may have to take medication for the rest of your life. You will have to have your blood pressure monitored closely all the rest of your life.

Always make sure you have enough medication to last through holidays and weekends. It is important that you not miss any doses. Plan ahead for your prescription renewals and refills by calling your local pharmacy a few days before your prescription runs out.

Pharmacists are trained to help you with your medication. Don't ever hesitate to ask for all the information you need to safeguard your health.

Overseas aid walk to start in Minden

The following report on this year's Walk For Water and how the funds are being utilized, was prepared by the chairman of the Help A Village Effort (H.A.V.E. Committee), Gerry Feltham.

The H.A.V.E.'s WALK FOR WATER, starting from Minden on Saturday, June 1, is being held to raise money for self-help water related projects in very needy Third World villages. One of the projects approved already by the H.A.V.E. Committee is the purchase of high density polyethylene water pipes for several dairy families in Chamasari, near Mussoorie, U.P., India. (Chamasari is a collection of small settlements, at an altitude of 3000 - 5000 ft., scattered along the foothills of the Himalayan mountains). The Mussoorie Gramin Vikas Samiti (MGVS) - a Christian retreat and study centre - will supervise this project; and the villagers themselves will contribute their labour.

Presently, women have to carry 10 - 15 gallons of water daily up 300 - 500 ft. of a mountain slope to their 'channs' - thatched sheds for both families and dairy cattle. The milk produced is carried far up the mountain side, and sold in the city of Mussoorie.

Instead of using expensive steel pipes, MGVS is introducing to the villages of the Indian Himalayas the much cheaper polyethylene pipes. (This kind of pipe is recommended by UNICEF, and used in Nepal). Through the gravity flow system, water will be piped from a spring along a single ridge for at least 2 miles to 8 distribution points. As a result families will have a constant and sufficient supply of pure drinking water; and their milk production will be substantially increased. The cost of this pipe line project will be $4,500.

By contributing to the H.A.V.E. fund, the people of Haliburton County will be directly involved in this new and extremely worthwhile, practical demonstration. The project will be providing not just water but also new hope and opportunity to numerous villagers in the Himalayas of northern India.

In last year's Walk For Wells over $23,000 (including $11,600 from CIDA) was raised. All of this money is now being used to provide many drinking water wells in drought prone villages of southern India.

Much effort is being made too, to establish suitable contacts in certain famine stricken African countries. It is anticipated that some of the funds from this year's Walk For Water will be appropriately spent on developmental, water related projects in Africa.

In keeping with H.A.V.E.'s constitution all contributions into its project funds,

Museum notes

The County Town Museum Committee are planning for the summer showings. Also plans are underway for a Rummage and Bake Sale on the holiday weekend. Watch for more news on this event.

When you are house cleaning remember to save articles for the rummage sale. They can be left at Dick Kirkwood's or John Hulbig will pick up articles. Phone Dick 286-2451 or John 286-1319.

including the Walk For Water money, go directly into Third World village projects. For every dollar H.A.V.E. raises for its projects, it is expected that CIDA will at least match it. An official receipt for income tax purposes is available to contributors.

This year's 25 km Walk will leave the municipal parking lot (Minden), circle Horseshoe Lake, and finish at the Minden Rotary Park. The Walk For Water is for everyone - individuals, groups, families, friends, cottagers, visitors, V.I.P.s, runners, etc. of all ages and conditions. Walkers who drop out are returned by bus to the starting point. A nature guide will accompany those who are particularly interested in special natural features along the route. The Walk is being extremely well organized by an excellent Walk committee.

Walk sponsorship forms will soon be available at Bowes & Cocks Ltd. and The Times, Minden; Halco Audio-Visual, Haliburton; and other places.

The Walk For Water is a very good opportunity to see a very beautiful part of Haliburton County; to exercise one's self; and to express one's concern in a practical way for the world's desperately needy.

Pick up your forms now;

contact your sponsors (Don't forget out-of-county contacts); and prepare yourself for the big Haliburton County walk at 8 a.m. on June 1.

Proxy voting

Proxy voting is a provision for those qualified electors who will be absent from their polling division on polling day and are unable to cast a ballot on the April 25, April 27 and April 29 designated advance polling days or in the office of the Returning Officer.

When proxy voting, the elector names another qualified elector in the same electoral district to cast the vote. A qualified elector may act as proxy for only two electors.

Proxy voting is applicable to electors who are employed in long distance transportation; committed to business activities under an employer's direction; a member or spouse or child of a member of the Canadian Forces on active duty; away from home attending an educational institute; an inmate in a penal or correctional institute not under sentence of imprisonment; or those who are incapable, either through handicap or illness, of attending a polling place.

To vote by proxy, the necessary form may be obtained from any Returning Officer. However, the completed form naming the proxy voter must be certified by the Returning Officer in the electoral district where the vote is to be cast. It must be presented by the person chosen to act as proxy no later than 7:00 p.m. on May 1st, the day preceding polling day.

The Returning Officer will issue a certificate to the proxy who, in turn, will exchange it for a ballot on election day.

STEOMANS

5-3, LITTLE DARLING DRESS-UP CARDIGAN:

What little lady could resist this charming special occasion sweater, knit just for her in Beehive Double Knitting yarn! The pattern instructions are written for chest sizes 22" through 28", including extra ease to fit over her pretty party frock. Optional sew-on trim accents the openwork pattern on the front and sleeves... we used a smaller version of the front buttons, but tiny beads would be just as sweet. A simple crochet edging all around makes a delicate final touch. For your FREE pattern visit the Stedmans Store in Minden or Haliburton.

The Minden Historical Society is collecting memorabilia concerning the early days of the community. Their search brought this photo to the group's attention, featuring the Minden Cornet Band. The group is now attempting to identify the members of the band. If you think you might know any of those pictured above, please contact Laura Kirkwood at 286-2451. The Society also has in its possession a book which bears a stamp on the inside cover "Medical Hall, Minden". Anyone with information concerning this notation is asked to contact Mrs. Kirkwood.

Field maintenance is important

The growing season has begun and with it come the weeds. Have you determined what spray programs you are going to use this year?

In laying out your plans, you must consider a number of things, first what needs are a problem and what crops they are in. Once you have determined what weeds you are having to contend with, you should turn to Publication #75 and determine the time of application and particular herbicides that will kill the weeds but not damage the crop that is to be grown.

In choosing the proper chemical you must consider any residue carryover it might have that will affect your cropping choices for next year, what the soil pH is - some chemicals such as metribuzen will cause crop damage if the soil has a high pH.

The soil type - clay, loam, or sand, also affects which chemicals can be used and at what stage of plant growth they should be used at. In many cases, higher rates of application are required with clay soils because of the binding or bonding effect of the clay particles. In sand type soils the chemicals may be too easily leached through the layer of soil from which the weed seeds will germinate, or into the vicinity of the sprouting seed that you planted.

Once you have chosen the proper chemical for the weeds and crop in question, it is very important to carefully read and understand the label. Note any cautions concerning time of application and handling procedures.

With pre-emergent herbicides a moderate amount of rain is required within 7 to 10 days of application, if it does not rain then you should rotary hoe or lightly cultivate the soil to get some chemical incorporation.

With post-emergent applications, it is important that the weeds not be too big - preferably in the 1 - 3 leaf stage at time of application.

With proper planning and careful application, your herbicide program should give weed-free fields in 1985.

Erosion control

Spring is here. Now is the time to look at your fields for drainage and erosion.

With the recent rains and snow melt, many fields are showing signs of soil movement. Small rills can be seen. Areas that soil has been deposited in can be observed at the bottom of slopes. Areas where the water runs across the field can be easily seen. Drain outlet problems can be noted.

At the same time you also have fields that are plowed but show little soil movement. Fields that have lots of residue on the surface. Residue that acts like small dams to slow up the water and hold the soil. There are fields that would erode if left bare but these fields were not plowed or have been planted into a fall cereal crop to help hold the soil.

Fields in the first category should be noted for protection next year. These fields need the residue cover to protect them from the snow melt and spring rains. They also need residue cover to protect them until this year's crop is big enough to cover the ground. If possible you should be asking if the tillage this spring is keeping the residue or burying it.

Tillage is one way of keeping the soil in place by managing residue. Crop rotation is also very important to keep a healthy soil that can better resist the detachment of soil particles.

Now is the time to plan crop rotation options for this fall or next year. Planning now will help you plan harvest and tillage this fall.

By protecting the soil through planned crop rotations and tillage, you can keep this major farm asset in a healthy state for next year's crops.

Minden residents got a sneak preview on the weekend of the excitement the community will experience in early June. Some 90 members of motorcycle touring clubs visited the community Sunday afternoon in preparation for the Ride for Sight June 8 and 9. The motorcyclists covered the route from Toronto and toured the village. Organizers met with local officials to iron out details for the weekend. The Ride for Sight is an annual event which raises money for the Retinitis Pigmentosa Foundation. Some 1500 motorcyclists are expected to take part this year raising in excess of $150,000.

Minden W.I. holds annual meeting

Minden Women's Institute held their annual meeting at the Library Cultural Centre on April 17 with Mrs. C. Lacey reading a verse to begin.

After the usual opening, the roll call of dues was answered by 22 members. Mrs. Kernohan then gave her treasurer's report. We had a very successful year. We were pleased to hear that our donation for CAT Scan was $160.

Delegates to Victoria East District Annual, May 14, are Mrs. Bunker, Mrs. L. Cox, Mrs. C. Lacey and Mrs. Sears, with other ladies wishing to go as well.

Mrs. W. Moore reported sending 8 cards since last meeting and also 220 cards over the past year at a cost of $98.40.

Mrs. Kernohan reported on our bus trip to Kitchener June 5 and names were turned in.

Collections for the Card Fund and Pennies for Friendship were taken and we had $24.30 to send to our District to help with the expenses of A.C.W. president's expenses. Correspondence was read and included an invitation to Burnt River W.I.'s Tweedsmuir Tea on April 20 but no one seemed interested.

The 4 Tweedsmuir Books were on display and some of the ladies looked through them. Mrs. A. Kernohan then declared Offices vacant and slate of Officers for 1985 - 86 are as follows: Past President - Mrs. L. Cox; President - Mrs. C. Lacey; 1st Vice President - Mrs. C. Wilson; 2nd Vice President - Mrs. D. Berry; Secretary and P.R.O. - Mrs. Sears; Treasurer - Mrs. A. Kernohan; District Director - Mrs. M. Bunker; Alternate - Mrs. L. Cox; Branch Directors - Mrs. J. Grant; Mrs. R. Hughes; Mrs. A. Coulter; Mrs. D. Berry; Curator - Mrs. J. Hulbig; Resolutions - Mrs. R. Hughes; Family & Consumer Affairs - Mrs. A. Coulter; Education &

Cultural Affairs - Mrs. L. Lemieux; Citizenship & World Affairs - May Spence; Agriculture and Canadian Industries - Mrs. D. Cox; Current Events - Mrs. M. J. O'Neill; Pianist - Mrs. D. Cox; Secret Pals and Card Convenor - Mrs. E. Moore.

Business included payment of Honorariums and one bill.

The meeting adjourned and a social half hour followed. Next meeting will be at this same location May 15 with all ladies welcome. We enjoyed seeing the fine display and demonstrations going on at the Gallery.

Interested parents of pre-schoolers, ages 2 and a half to 5 years, are invited to bring their children to class to participate in our program. You may attend one or both of the days. Congratulations and many happy returns to Tessa Davis of Minden on her 93rd birthday. Hope you have many more Mrs. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Pritchard, Bob and Stephanie Wells, Mrs. Vivian Kernohan and Olga Black attended the Loughheed/Smith wedding in Barrie on Saturday. Doug is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Loughheed (nee Marjorie Pritchard formerly of Minden.)

Bradley Robinson is away to France for several weeks.

Museum card party winners for this week - Top scorer for the season Florence Schlosser, most lone hands Marg McAfee, other winners, May Eldrige (on a cut), Bob Mitchell and Bill Bennett.

Don't forget the movies for children this Friday at the Library/Cultural Centre from 7:15 to 8:15 p.m. As usual, admission is free.

Minden Library book exchange takes place this Wednesday. A good time to select your reading for the next few weeks.

We were very sorry to hear that 90 year old Mrs. S. Ackerblade is at present a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough and also that Mr. Angus Coulter suffered a fall in his workshop at Hyland Crest recently and is recuperating slowly.

Monday evening card party at Club 35 this week's winners were: High lady Myrna McCarthy, who also took the door prize, high man, Bill Cowan, most lone hands, Jack Gregory (on a cut) while others were Helen Davis, Dean Hodgson and Bill Cowan.

The following report was submitted from the residents of Staunworth Court and we are sure you will enjoy sharing it.

The tenants of Staunworth Court had a very nice time the other night when Toos Reid, Rose Barry and Larry VanLieshout came in to entertain them with some lovely singing. Mr. Alex Stevenson supplied the tenants with Sing-a-long books so everyone could join in and sing many of the old songs. The evening culminated when our food convenor Mrs. Florence Lindsay served a lovely lunch prepared by some of the tenants complete with a large birthday cake for four of our "young ladies" who were celebrating birthdays. The tenants are looking forward to an evening this week with our local Neighbourhood Watch coming in to talk to them and next week our Dixie Lee Dinner Night. We have few illnesses lately but with the beautiful weather the past few days, everyone is out and enjoying themselves. We will miss Margaret Horsley around for the next few weeks as she is on her way out west for her granddaughter's wedding and to visit her daughter, so we wish her a good trip and a speedy return. Unfortunately Mrs. Vera Howe went to hospital Monday so we wish her well and hope she is back with us very soon. Hope the good weather stays with us for election day so everyone can get out and vote.

Hope you remembered to pledge your support for the HHSS Bands bike-a-thon this coming Sunday. Members of the bands are riding twenty miles from Haliburton to Minden and the funds raised will go toward the Stage Band trip to Quebec City in May when they will take part in the National Finals of the Canadian Stage Bands Festival. Let's support these youngsters - they've worked hard - now it's our turn to shown them how much we appreciate their efforts!

Sincere sympathy to Mrs. Paul O'Brien on the loss of her sister.

Dear readers. - Another week has started here at Hyland Crest. To tell you all about it I'll do my very best.

Quite a number here had relatives call or had special guests. Bill Johnson came to visit his mother and give her special care, took her for a ride in her wheel chair. Edith Shorter's son came to visit his mother, which was quite fine. Edna Cowan and Lily Hogg have company coming and going, nearly all the time. My daughter June Mason had lunch with me on Saturday. Annie Cox's family visit almost every day.

Sorry to report Angus Coulter working in his carpentry shop alone had the misfortune to fall and break some more bones.

Always a very interesting service in the chapel Sunday night. When the Burgess and Thompsons are there, then everything seems to fit in just right.

Good to have our supervisor Sidney Brown and Mrs. Brown back from a two week holiday. They say they had a real nice time while they were away.

It is also good to have Doris Robinson back with us today. Linda kept everything right up to date while her sister was away.

Congratulations to Roy Anderson, we would like to say, who had a birthday this 16th of April day.

Tuesday morning Rev. Westhaver of Minden United Church conducted a very interesting service in the chapel this beautiful April day and Fred Ballard came the music to play.

Tuesday afternoon while Linda was reading a very interesting story to those who couldn't see the movies, which was just fine. "Training Arctic Dogs", "Sailing the Netherlands" and "Spring Time".

Tuesday night our entertainers came. Gordon

Houghton, Murray and Shirley Davis and their son-in-law Kirk. They sing and play fine music. Murray can surely play that old accordion. We thank you all for coming and getting the job well done.

Our ladies have a quilt set up in quilting frames. Here at Hyland Crest we have such busy dames.

Are we not having any sunshine these days? Would be nice if it would just stay this way.

Our deepest sympathy from all here we would like to convey to Ada Lewis on the loss of her cousin Muriel Hancock, who just recently passed away.

We were pleased to have Fred Chapple and son call on me one day. We got to know Fred real well. He purchased 4 Seasons Store and we lived up that way.

Down at fun and fitness playing the bowling game. Mrs. Ellen Knight knocked down more pins than any of the rest.

We're sorry we missed the Payne, Duncan, Burch trio in my last letter. We are always glad to see them come - they get all their instruments warmed up, they really hum.

The ladies from Lochlin United Church brought and served a lovely lunch, this 18th April day. Then for a good old sing song, Doris the music did play.

You know Fern Donnelly is really a dear. She came Friday morning to help Doris with fun and fitness while Linda wasn't here.

Friday afternoon our entertainers came again. Grace Coburn and Jean Cox - we had some visitors too, which makes it more interesting rather more than a few.

Don't be afraid to talk to yourself. It's a good way of finding out what you're thinking.
